1828 Buffalo City Directory

The 1828 Buffalo city directory, published by Leonard P. Crary, was the first directory published in what was then the village of Buffalo, New York. There are few surviving copies. The next Buffalo directory came out in 1832, published by Leonard's widow, Sarah Crary. Buffalo city directories have been published, with a few exceptions, on an annual basis ever since.

In 1876, the Courier Company published a directory for Buffalo and included a reprint of the 1828 directory in the back. The original edition had a fold-out map that was omitted in the 1876 reprint.

We are grateful to the Buffalo and Erie County Public Library for microfilming the 1876 directory, digitizing that microfilm, and granting us permission to download the 1828 page scans and recreate that first directory for you.

ADVERTISEMENT.

THE Publisher of the Buffalo Directory does not deem it necessary to offer to the publick, any apology for attempting to comply with the frequent calls, (particularly from strangers,) for a work of this kind. But he regrets that unforeseen circumstances have prevented his bestowing that labour and attention upon it, which the work really required. He also regrets the delay that has attended its publication. The subject was new to him ; and he unexpectedly found himself engaged in a work that demanded a longer period for its proper completion, than he had originally assigned for it. He is aware of its imperfections, but he hopes to secure the indulgence of his friends for the first attempt in a perplexing business, by a promise of increased exertions, should the success of his present undertaking warrant its future continuance.

Buffalo, February, 1828.

INTRODUCTION.

THE Village of BUFFALO is situated in the town of the same name, in the county of Erie, and state of New-York; and is built upon the land adjoining Buffalo Creek and Lake Erie, at the junction of these waters. Most of the village is situated upon a bluff of table land that rises about fifty feet above the level of the Lake. The low lands that extend from the foot of this bluff, (or Terrace, as it is generally called, which forms the western and southern boundary of the upper village,) to the margin of the Creek and Lake, offering many inducements to particular business pursuits, have been overspread with buildings, and are becoming thickly populated.

The village was originally surveyed and laid out, by the Holland Land Company, to whom the site belonged, in 1801; and the settlement may be said to have begun in the following year. The streets were originally graced with such trans-atlantick names, as were calculated to preserve the associations of home, in the minds of those who owned the lands; but these have recently, by our village authorities, been displaced, and those shown in the annexed map, substituted. Owing to the usual causes which retard new settlements in their advancement, the village made but inconsiderable progress in its growth, until the commencement of the war, in 1812, when it became a military resort. In December, 1813, the place was entered by the British and Indians, and every building but two was burnt.—The inhabitants were many of them carried captives to Montreal, while others preserved their liberty by a precipitate flight. The loss of property fell mostly upon individuals, and was not only severe, but, in its consequences, truly calamitous—leaving in many instances, families destitute of house, clothing or provisions, with which to combat the severities of the season. From this period to the close of the war, nothing like a regular and permanent attempt was made to rebuild the town, although such of the inhabitants as could, returned and made temporary locations upon the sites of their former habitations. The news of peace was the signal for renewed exertions to rebuild the place, but pecuniary embarrassments, and remoteness from market, paralyzed all efforts so effectually as to keep back the place, and retain for it the character of a hamlet only, until the near approach of the Grand Canal, in its progress westward, in 1822, gave brighter prospects to those on whom exertions devolved. In 1825, payment was received from the United States, under certain restrictions for the buildings destroyed in 1813, but all remuneration for other property lost, was rigidly withheld.—Exertions for public advancement now became more visibly efficient; and the attempts which had been several years making to render Buffalo Creek a commercial resort, were now first completely successful. The mouth of that stream had been obstructed by a sand bar which shut out most vessels that navigated the lake, and forced them to resort to Black Rock, where a temporary shelter only could be afforded them, in the open river. To effect the desired object, a loan had been procured from the state, of $12,000, which, aided by private donations, had so far perfected a pier on the south side of the mouth of the Creek, as to exclude sand, and leave an open channel for vessels into the mouth of the harbour. The consequences of this were to create a new resort for vessels, and to arrest them in their passage to Black Rock. This necessarily caused the preparation of wharves, store-houses, and such other conveniences as were required by the new business pursuits thus created. In January, 1825, the first village census was taken, and gave a total of 2412 inhabitants; being 314 more than the whole township of Buffalo contained five years before.

GENERAL VIEW, &c.

From the period last mentioned to the present, the growth of the village has been regular, and its improvements permanent.

The village of Buffalo was incorporated in 1822, by its present name, and its municipal government is administered by a President, and Board of Trustees, who are elected annually, by the free inhabitants.

The Publick Buildings, consist of five houses of publick worship, court-house, jail, bank, ensurance office, land office, market, engine house, and light-house.

Publick Institutions.—These are, the Bank of Niagara, incorporated in 1816, with a capital of $400,000, the charter of which expires in 1832.

Western Ensurance Company of the Village of Buffalo, incorporated in 1817, capital $400,000—$365,750 of which is paid in—charter expires in 1830.

Buffalo High School, incorporated in 1827, capital not to exceed $25,000—$10,000 of which is already subscribed, and the school commenced in in rooms temporarily fitted for the purpose, in January last. The buildings for this institution, are to be erected the ensuing season.

The Buffalo Hydraulic Association, incorporated in 1827, capital $25,000, which may be increased to $50,000. The objects of this association are, to supply the inhabitants with water, and to create MILL PRIVILEGES, within the village. This latter object is to be accomplished by taking out the waters of Buffalo Creek, about three and a half miles from the village, and conveying them by a canal to the eastern boundary of the corporation, about half a mile from Main-street, where sufficient fall can be had for the purposes intended. This canal was begun last summer, and so far completed as to demonstrate the feasibility of the scheme. A Saw-Mill is already in operation upon the canal, and no doubt seems to remain that when the work is completed, an abundant supply of water will be obtained, and mill privileges of incalculable advantage to the village and country, be thus placed at command.

Religious Societies.—These are, one Episcopal, one Presbyterian, one Universalist, one Baptist, and one Methodist.

Schools.—There are within the village, 11 District and Private Schools, exclusive of the High School above mentioned, and embracing two Schools for Young Ladies, conducted on the most approved plan, by competent teachers, in which the higher branches of female education are taught. There may be added to these, a School recently established by the Mariners of the Western Lakes, for the purpose of improvement in navigation, which is designed as a permanent winter establishment.

Mails.—The whole number of Mails arriving at and departing, weekly, from the Post-Office in this village, is 35. The first mail received here was in March, 1803, on horseback. It was conveyed from the east once in two weeks in this manner, until 1805. A weekly route was then established, and continued until 1809. In 1810, the mode of conveyance was changed, and a stage wagon was used. As the country advanced in improvements, the route was changed to twice and three times a week, and subsequently to a daily route. The Eastern mail is now received regularly twice a day.

The following is a list of the Mails, arriving at and departing from the Post-Office in this village, in each week:—Eastern Mail, twice a day; Western, daily; Northern, do.; Mail, via Springville, to Olean, once a week, (during the summer twice); via Warsaw to Geneseo, twice a week, (summer three times); via Lodi, to Fredonia, once a week, (summer twice); via Cayuga Creek, to Moscow, once a week. During the season of navigation, the Steam-Boat Mail to Detroit, is dispatched four times a week.

Newspapers, &c.—There are published in this village, five Newspapers, viz: Buffalo Journal, Buffalo Patriot, Buffalo Emporium, Buffalo & Black Rock Gazette, and Western Advertiser. The Emporium is published semi-weekly, the others weekly. The Patriot and Journal are the oldest establishments, the former having been commenced in 1811, under the name of the Buffalo Gazette, and the latter in 1815, under that of the Niagara Journal. The Emporium was commenced in 1824; the Buffalo and Black Rock Gazette was removed from Black Rock to this village, in November last, at which time the word Buffalo was first added to its title; the Advertiser was commenced in December last. The Journal and the Emporium, are owned and conducted in connection with Book Printing, Book Binding and Book Selling operations, which are pursued to an extent, in the various branches, commensurate with the existing demand.

Publick Works.—Of these, we enumerate the termination of the Erie Canal, and its dependencies; the Pier built to protect the entrance of the harbour from encroachments of sand, upon which the United States have bestowed an appropriation of $15,000; and the Light-House now built, with the one to be erected the ensuing season, the foundation of which is already laid. To these must be added the works of the Hydraulic Association, before mentioned, for the creation of water power for mill and other purposes.

There is a Company formed, for the purpose of supplying the villages of Buffalo and Black Rock with water to be drawn from the Jubilee Springs, two miles and a half east of the village, where an abundant supply is found of excellent quality, for culinary and other uses. This water has already been introduced into Black Rock, by wooden pipes, and it is understood that measures will be taken to bring it into Buffalo, at as early a period as practicable.

The Erie Canal approaches the village across the low lands which form the shore of the Niagara river at its head, and terminates in the Little Buffalo Creek, a few rods from the foot of the Terrace. From the point of intersection with the Little Buffalo, to where that stream is lost in Big Buffalo Creek, extensive excavations have been made, which render the whole distance a continued basin, and the same is true of a considerable distance above the point of intersection; making in all one of the most extensive and convenient resorts for boats to be found upon the Canal. From this basin, boats pass when necessary into the harbour, and assume their stations either by the side of lake vessels, or at the wharves of store-houses, as convenience of discharging and receiving cargoes may require.

Buffalo Harbour, with which the Canal thus communicates, is formed by Buffalo Creek, which is of sufficient depth to receive the lake vessels for a distance of about one mile from its mouth, and is considered by mariners as affording the most secure and convenient harbour to be found on the American shore of the lake. The present Light-house is situated on the shore of the lake, upon a tongue of land formed by the shore of the lake and Buffalo creek; but its light is so diminutive that government have resolved to abandon it, and one is now erecting on the outer extremity of the Buffalo Pier, the base of which will connect with and serve to prolong that work.

STATISTICKS.

The number of American Vessels of various descriptions, employed in the commerce of Lake Erie and the upper Lakes, is 53, with an aggregate burden of 3611 tons. The relative increase of lake commerce at Buffalo, will be best illustrated by the subjoined table, showing the number of arrivals and departures in each of the thirteen preceding years :

Years.	No. of arrivals and departures.	Years.	No. of arrivals and departures.

Of the amount of property shipped to the various ports of the Lakes, no certain information can be given, with the exception of the single article of Salt, of which upwards of 30,000 barrels were shipped during the past year.

The following comparative schedule of property, received by, and shipped eastward on the Canal, in 1826 and '27, will give some idea of the importance of that branch of business, to this village:

Collected in 1826, $19,558. Increase in 1827, $16,735.

By this schedule, it will be seen, that Pig Iron and Iron Castings, to a very large amount, have been received for eastern destination. These articles are the product and manufacture of Ohio, and will yearly increase with the demand for them, as the quantity of ore is said to be inexhaustible; and the business of quarrying and smelting it, affords a fair compensation. Several Furnaces are already in full operation, two of which are connected with business houses in this village, by which the facilities of vending their products are greatly increased. Eventually, these furnaces are designed to furnish wrought bar iron, of a good quality, in any quantities required by the market.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Medicated Vapour Bath.—This establishment is under the direction of Dr. H. R. Stagg, and its use has grown into considerable repute amongst medical gentlemen, as a cure for the gout, rheumatism, disorders of the skin, and chronick affections generally.

Theatre.—This establishment is usually kept open for several months in the summer and fall of the year, when strangers most throng the village. The companies that have heretofore occupied the house, though not the first in the line of their profession, have usually been respectable.

County Poor House.—The Supervisors of Erie county, at their last annual meeting, authorized the building of a County Poor House, and appointed Commissioners to superintend its erection the present year.

Store-Houses.—There are 12 Store-Houses for the transaction of the business on the lake and canal.

Taverns.—The village is better accommodated with places of publick entertainment, than almost any other place of its size in the country. There are 15 within the bounds of the corporation, several of which are kept and furnished in a style of superior elegance.

PRINCIPAL EVENTS

Of the late War, on the Niagara Frontier, arranged in chronological order.

- 1812, Oct. 13.—Battle of Queenston. Heights carried by the American troops under General Stephen Van Rensselaer, but the second detachment, consisting of New-York Militia, refusing to cross to the support of their countrymen, the broken British troops rallied in the woods, in the rear of the Heights, and being reinforced by others from Fort George, they attacked and regained possession of the Heights, after a severe conflict, in which their commander, General Brock, was slain.
- Nov. 21.—Cannonade between Forts George & Niagara, which continued the whole day, with hot shot from both forts. The British threw more than two thousand hot shot, and one hundred and eighty shells, into Fort Niagara, by which they killed two men only. The American shot sunk a schooner at the wharf upon the British shore, and set the town of Newark on fire repeatedly, during the day.
- Nov. 27.—Captain King, with a small detachment of troops, crossed the Niagara River, in the night, spiked and rendered useless several pieces of cannon, at two small batteries, below Fort Erie.
- 1813, May 27.—Fort George captured by a detachment of General Dearborn's force, assisted by several light vessels from the American fleet on Lake Ontario.
- July 11.—Attack on Black Rock, in which the British destroyed the barracks, block house, &c. They were repulsed by a detachment of regular troops

- and drafted militia, and a party of volunteers from Buffalo and the surrounding country.
- Aug. 24.—British under sir George Provost, attacked the American pickets at Fort George, but retreated after driving them in.
- Dec. 13.—Newark burnt, and Fort George abandoned, by the American forces, under Gen. M'Clure.
- Dec. 19.—Fort Niagara surprised by the British, who crossed at 5 mile Meadows and reached the Fort, undiscovered. This was followed by the burning of the villages of Youngstown, Lewiston, Manchester, (Niagara Falls,) and the Indian village of Tuscarora, on that and the following days.
- Dec. 30.—Buffalo burnt and entirely destroyed by the British with the exception of two buildings, and the inhabitants forced to flee, many of them on foot, through the surrounding wilderness to distant settlements, amidst the frosts and snows of winter.
- 1814, July 3.—American army, under Gen. Brown, crossed the Niagara from Buffalo, and captured Fort Erie, commanded by Major Burke, and garrisoned by 170 British regulars.
- July 5.—Battle of Chippawa. The British regulars defeated at the point of the bayonet by the American troops.
- July 25.—Battle of the Cataract. British defeated after a sanguinary contest, in which Maj. General Brown and Brigadier General Scott were wounded. Maj. Gen. Riall, of the British army, was taken prisoner.
- August 3.—The enemy, 1500 strong, under the command of Lieut. Colonel Tucker, were repulsed at Scajaquadie's creek, in an attempt upon Buffalo, by a detachment of 240 riflemen, under the command of Major Morgan.

August 12.—Major Morgan, of the first Rifle Regiment, killed in an affair with the enemy's outposts, near Fort Erie.

August 15.—The British repulsed in a night attack on Fort Erie, with the loss of about 600 killed and prisoners.

September 17.—Sortie on the British lines from Fort Erie, which was completely successful. A few days after the sortie, the British retired from before Fort Erie, and abandoned all the posts on the Niagara river, except Fort George. The American troops soon after destroyed Fort Erie, and retired into winter quarters.
